Реч уредника Конференције

Међународна научна конференција “Глобализација и право”, одржана је на Правном факултету у Нишу 21-22. априла 2017. године. Тема Конференције је својом актуелношћу и могућношћу свеобухватног приступа, окупила велики број иностраних и домаћих стручњака. Глобализација је посматрана не само као глобализација тржишта већ као процес свеукупног друштвеног, културног, економског, политичког, војног и правног повезивања и интегрисања у међународну заједницу. Аутори радова презентованих на Конференцији анализирали су главне карактеристике глобализације, њене негативне и позитивне учинке, указујући да она са собом носи интеркативни однос са другим упоредним процесима трансформације светског система, као што су драматичан пораст неједнакости између богатих и сиромашних земаља, етнички сукоби, масовне миграције на међународном плану, организовани злочин на глобалном ниову. Интеракција и повезивање друштвених односа на светском ниову захтева и неку врсту правне глобализације: унификације и усаглашавања правних система.

Општи је утисак да је Конференција постигла висок научни ниво, што потврђује и објављивање седамдесет научних радова у два зборника: тематски зборник са радовима на енглеском језику и радови на српском језику у оквиру Зборника радова Правног факултета у Нишу. Објављивање наведених зборника има за циљ да резултате истраживања учесника Конференције учине доступним научној, стручној и широј јавности, како би се подстакла научна и стручна расправа о теоријским и практичним проблемима које глобализација са собом носи.

Editors-in-Chief Introductory Note

The International Scientific Conference “Globalization and Law” was held at the Faculty of Law, University of Niš on 21st-22nd April 2017. The contemporary nature of the Conference topic and the authors’ comprehensive approach to a wide range of contemporary issues has contributed to gathering a large number of foreign and domestic experts. Globalization has been observed not only as the globalization of the economic market but also as a process of overall social, cultural, economic, political, military and legal cooperation, interconnectedness and integration into the international community. The authors of the presented papers have analyzed the main characteristics of globalization, its negative and positive effects, and its interaction with other comparative processes related to the transformation of the world system, such as: a dramatic increase in inequality between the rich and poor countries, ethnic conflicts, mass migrations at the international level, organized crime on the global scale, etc. The interaction and social cooperation at the global level call for a kind of legal globalization, which is embodied in the unification and harmonization of legal systems.

There is a general impression that the Conference has been highly successful in terms of the attained level of scientific research, which is substantiated by more than 70 scientific papers published in two thematic Collections of Papers of the Law Faculty in Niš: a collection of papers in English and a collection of papers in Serbian. The publication of these collections of papers aims to make the the Conference participants’ research results available to the scientific, professional and general public, for the purpose of encouraging scientific and professional discussion on the theoretical and practical issues underlying the globalization process.
